Concerning your CSA 2010: A Driver's Guide Program

On August 16, 2010, the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Administration (FMCSA) announced significant changes to the carrier and driver scoring process under its Comprehensive Safety Analysis (CSA 2010) enforcement program.

The changes affect how several of the BASICs are measured, including numerous changes to the lists of tracked violations and their severities.

Some of these changes have affected the content of the Discussion Guide included in the CSA 2010: A Driver's Guide training program, especially the example violations used in the various learning activities.

The information in the DVD presentation and Driver Handbooks are correct, with the small exception that an 'overweight vehicle' is no longer a tracked violation in CSA's Safety Measurement System (SMS). A reference is made to this violation in the Data Collection segment of the DVD and on pg. 2 of the Driver Handbook.

The sample CSA 2010 Overview Poster included in the CSA 2010: A Driver's Guide program is unaffected by the August 16 methodology changes.
